Prosperity. Saturday meeting a first step in long journey to London's fresh start

angela.mullins@metronews.ca

Taxpayers are looking at a possible bill of $84.35 million as city councillors hear the first proposals on Saturday to revitalize London.

Western University's pitch to turn city hall and the surrounding grounds into a downtown campus is by far the most expensive, at about $35 million. But there are also proposals from the Grand Theatre ($25 million), St. Joseph's Health Care Foundation ($10.3 million) and Museum London ($10 million).

Those projects — some of 40 submitted in an open call for ideas — are just the tip of a financial iceberg expected to comprise the 10-year prosperity plan. Only 12 proposals will be heard on Saturday.

Council's investment and economic prosperity committee has spent the past several months developing a framework for fielding projects and creating the plan. In a nutshell,

Investing in London

- The investment and economic prosperity committee meeting starts at 9 a.m. on Saturday in council chambers at city hall. To learn more, go to prosperityforlondon.ca. For a closer look at some of the proposals, turn to page 6.

here's how it works:

- Proposals will be presented on the overall cost, suggested investment from the city and number of jobs created.

- Proposals will be ranked in these categories: Creating jobs, fuelling economic change, getting outside investment, creating positive spinoff, building partnerships and benefiting key sectors.

- The rankings will be used to assign priorities in the massive plan that city staff are expected to present in September.

A major component of the prosperity discussion has been how cash-strapped city coffers can afford to dream big. Funding formulas are expected to be part of the final plan.

Investigation

Two more arrested in St. Paddy's riot

Another two people, Michael Klomp, 19, of London, and Brandon Radlo, 19, of Brantford, have been charged in the aftermath of the St. Patrick's Day riot near Fanshawe College's campus.

Klomp is charged with one count of being a member of an unlawful assembly, and three counts of act likely to cause mischief. Radlo is charged with one count of being a member of an unlawful assembly, and one count of mischief under $5,000.

A total of 153 charges have been laid against 63 people in relation to the Fleming Drive riot. Twenty-five people involved were Fanshawe students at the time. METRO

Dispelling myths of sex work

Speaking up. Forum designed to allow sex workers to have their voices heard

ANGELA MULLINS

Nikki Thomas doesn't roam city streets in fishnet stockings and tight skirts. Nor does she have a pimp. She's not a drug addict and she wasn't sexually abused as a child.

But, she is a sex-trade worker — and she's on a mission to erase stereotypes.

"A lot of times, when I define myself ... I have to say what I'm not," said Thomas, 31, executive director of Toronto-based Sex Professionals of Canada. "People sometimes assume the industry is so negative and only filled with the worst type of people."

"The truth is ... the street-based sex work represents 10 to 15 per cent of the profession."

The rest happens behind closed doors ... There are women who are making this choice for themselves."

Thomas will be in London

Sex workers are often left out of conversations about social acceptance and security, organizers say. That needs to change, especially in light of recent court rulings that have deemed prostitution laws harmful to sex workers.

Toronto council ruling

London won't piggyback on plastic-bag ban

With plastic bags expected to soon be a thing of the past in Toronto, there's not an immediate move to follow suit at London city hall.

Jay Stanford, the city's director of environment, fleet and solid waste, said staff would only bring forward such a proposal at council's bidding.

Toronto council voted Wednesday to ban distribution of plastic bags. The move caught some, including Mayor Rob Ford, off guard.

Ford dubbed the decision, which takes effect Jan. 1, "the dumbest thing" council's ever done.

"It's just ludicrous," he said.

Ford said voters bear some of the blame, saying they're not involved enough in municipal politics to stop things like this from happening.

"Sometimes I get so frustrated because the people are just sitting back listening but they don't pick up the phone, don't go down to city hall, they don't ask questions," he said.

London's policy on plastic bags promotes recycling them and buying reusable bags, Stanford said Thursday.

When the chairman of Fiesta London! includes a bottle of Pepto-Bismol and a fire extinguisher in his "required materials" for the event, you know it's going to be a saucy affair.

To say George Perez and the rest of the Fiesta London! organizing committee are amped-up for the third edition of the annual Hispanic celebration would be an understatement.

"We want to kick off the festival season in London with some Mexican flair," Perez said of Sunday's one-day extravaganza, which runs from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. at Covent Garden Market.

A jalapeno-eating contest, taco-eating challenge, and fitness competition are expected to draw the largest crowds of the day. The hot pepper one, slated for 6:30 p.m., attracts tourists on its own, Perez said, as people travel from all over the province to witness the mouth-on-fire exhibition.

"One of our main goals is to bring in more people from

About 10,000 made it out to last year's Fiesta London! celebration. Perez said they expect more on Sunday.

Expect a bananagram and magic show at Car Free

This weekend, the Forest City's little-big festival hopes the work done behind the scenes over the past few months will help enhance one its signature characteristics: Its low-key feel.

Organizers of Car Free Day — set to take place in the city's core (Dundas Street between Wellington and Talbot streets) — have decided to increase its street-level busker-style entertainment options, while cutting back on larger scale attractions such as performance stages.

"We were edging more towards a music festival last year," organizer Ryan Craven said. "We're honing in on more family-oriented activities this time around."

with the world's largest bananagram, are just a few of Car Free's attractions.

A strong theme prevalent in all of the festival's activities is the promotion of positive health and well-being.

"It's really a celebration of being active, and being entrenched in the local culture and environment," Craven said. JOHN MATISZ/METRO

Development. A number of London projects are now being considered

angela.mullins@metronews.ca

The project proposals headed to Saturday's investment and economic prosperity committee range from business incubators to one aimed at empowering women.

Of the 12 ideas, seven ask for specific amounts of city funding. They are:

Western University

Turn city hall, centennial hall and civic square into a downtown campus.

Overall cost: Not stated
Taxpayer cost: $35 million
Jobs created: 20

The Grand Theatre

The Ontario government shut down all 72 of the self-serve machines that sell vehicle plate renewals after card-skimming devices were found on four kiosks in the Toronto area.

Ice dancers. London's Virtue and Inderton's Moir scheduled to return to competition in October at Skate Canada in Windsor Canada's Olympic and world ice dance champions Tessa Virtue and Scott Moir will continue to train in Canton, Mich., despite the recent firing of one of their coaches.

Igor Shpilband, who had coached Virtue and Moir in Michigan alongside Marina Zoueva for the past eight years, announced earlier this week he'd been fired.

"Their coaching partnership provided an enjoyable and productive training environment and together we experienced great success on the ice," Moir said in a release. "We were obviously disappointed to receive the news that our coaching team of Marina and Igor will no longer be working together."

Zoueva will remain the dancers' coach.

"It was an honour to work with (Shpilband) every day, and we respect his dance knowledge and technical expertise," Virtue said. "We are very grateful to him for everything he has helped us achieve."

Virtue, from London, and Moir, from Ilderton, captured their second world title in March in Nice, France, and then took a six-week break from competition, touring with Stars on Ice and taking some planned vacation time.

The two are scheduled to compete at two ISU Grand Prix events: Skate Canada International in Windsor, Oct. 26-28, and the Rostelecom Cup in Moscow, Nov. 9-11. THE CANADIAN PRESS

First Nations school being tested for HIV

Heightened risk.

University of Manitoba professor administers faulty diabetes screening

Dozens of students and staff at a First Nations high school are being tested for HIV and hepatitis after undergoing a faulty diabetes screening.

A University of Manitoba professor talked to students at Southeast Collegiate on May 4 about diabetes and used a glucometer to test blood-sugar levels on about 80 people.

University spokesman John Danakas said the professor changed the needle used on each person.

"It's the device which holds the lancet that was reused, and you're not supposed to reuse that. Although the device never comes into contact with the person's skin ... there's still a very, very small, I think it's one in several million, possibility that there could be an infection."

The university later clarified the chances are deemed to be less than one in a million.

Danakas would not identify the professor, but said he was not authorized to perform the diabetes test and has been disciplined.

The case has angered some aboriginal leaders.

"While the risk of a student contracting an infection is described by the University of Manitoba as exceptionally unlikely ... the risk is not zero," Chief Michael Yellowback of the Manto Sipi Cree Nation, said in a written statement. Eight children from the reserve who attend the Winnipeg school were part of the diabetes test.

The group that represents First Nations communities across northern Manitoba said it was alarmed that impromptu diabetes tests were done without parental consent.

"At the heart of the matter, prior written parental consent should have been required by the school," said Grand Chief David Harper of the Manitoba Keewatinowi Okimakanak.

Five out of 11 people being sought Thursday were arrested.

It was unclear what charges Khadir's daughter, Yalda Machouf-Khadir, might face. Her arrest came just two days after that of her politician father, who was released with a fine.

Khadir had compared his own act of blocking a street during a protest, to the civil disobedience of Mahatma Gandhi and Martin Luther King.

Italy. Suspected gas leak causes explosion, kills 3

Search teams picking through the rubble of a residential building which collapsed in southern Italy Thursday after an explosion have found the bodies of an Italian-Dutch couple and their young child, police say.

Francesco Spinelli, the Carabinieri paramilitary commander in the town of Conversano in the Apulia region, said the bodies were found several hours after the blast.

Local officials have told media that a gas leak is suspected as the cause.

At least 10 people in surrounding buildings were slightly injured, including one child.

UN, activists allege new wave of atrocities in Syria

Mazraat al-Qubair.

Groups say nearly 80 people killed, just weeks after mass killings in Houla

UN Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said unarmed UN monitors came under fire Thursday as they tried to reach the scene of the latest Syrian mass killing. Activists said government forces killed nearly 80 people, including women and children who were shot, hacked to death and burned in their homes.

Ban told the UN General Assembly that the monitors "were shot at with small arms" as they tried to reach Mazraat al-Qubair, a farming area in the central Hama province. The group initially was denied access. He did not mention any casualties, and it was not clear who was behind the shooting.

International envoy Kofi Annan told the General Assembly, "If things do not change, the future is likely to be one of brutal repression, massacres, sectarian violence, and even all-out civil war."

Syria denied that its forces committed a massacre as "absolutely baseless" and blamed the violence on terrorists who trying to provoke foreign military intervention to topple Assad.

A resident of Mazraat al-Qubair said troops shelled the area for five hours Wednesday before government-aligned militiamen entered the area, "killing and hacking everyone they could find."

"Women and children were burned inside their homes in al-Qubair," said Mousab Al-hamad, an activist based in Hama. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ports not diverting cargo: Canada

Trade irritant.
U.S. senators
had complained
Canada was unfairly subsidizing the diversion of ships

A commissioner on a U.S. federal agency probing whether Canadian ports on the West Coast are luring lucrative cargo business away from their American counterparts says the problem may be minimal.

The Canadian government and other officials have told the Federal Maritime Commission that over a period of 10 years, only 2.5 per cent of U.S.-bound cargo was imported via Canadian ports, the agency's Rebecca Dye said Thursday.

Speaking at a Canadian American Business Council conference on China, Dye didn't say when the commission would complete its investigation and deliver its findings to U.S. Congress.

But the matter has been a simmering trade irritant between the U.S. and Canada ever since a pair of senators from Washington state complained that Canadians are unfairly subsidizing the diversion of cargo ships away from their American competitors, particularly in Prince Rupert, B.C.

Andrew Mayer, an official at the Prince Rupert Port Authority also at the conference on Thursday, pointed out that Canadian officials hardly give cargo ships a free ride. While the U.S. taxes shippers, Canada charges them a user fee, he said.

"We charge them to help fund the maintenance of these ports, but we don't have a tax," Mayer said.

He added that cost considerations aren't a "significant component" in why overseas exporters choose a particular port.

Best Buy founder steps down

Richard Schulze, the founder and outgoing chairman of Best Buy, pictured above, announced his resignation from the board on Thursday and said that he may sell off his 20.1 per cent stake in the beleaguered electronics retailer. Schulze, 71, has been with the company since its inception in 1966 and its largest shareholder by far. It's the latest news to hit the Minneapolis company facing increasing competition from online retailers and a CEO scandal, and it removes one obstacle for a possible private equity takeover of the company. Shares fell nearly eight per cent in morning trading. CHUCK STODDY/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1 Bonnaroo. 80,000 people are camping out on a 700 acre site in Manchester, Tenn., this weekend for the epic music festival Bonnaroo, which features 150 acts on 13 stages. The likes of Radiohead, Red Hot Chili Peppers, Phish and the Beach Boys will all be there. Best overnight guitar campfire sing-song ever.

2 Home ATM. NBA player DeShawn Stevenson installed an ATM machine in his Dallas home to allow his buddies to withdraw money before they go out partying. And each ATM withdrawal at his house will cost you: $4.50 ATM fee per transaction. I'm taking that idea to the bank.

3 Rob Lowe Takes Winnipeg. There have been spottings of him in town all week, where he's filming The Casey Anthony Story for Lifetime TV — playing the part of prosecutor Jeff Ashton. One woman tweeted the Lowe down, "Guess who just met Rob Lowe? Yeah, that's right. Moi. 80s dream realized. And yes, we touched. Le sigh. #Winnipeg".

4 B.C. Limo Driver. A limo driver in Vernon, B.C., called police Saturday night because of drunken passengers in his vehicle. Just one problem: When the police showed up, the driver himself had been drinking. And he failed a roadside breath test. He's now facing an impaired driving charge.

5 Graceland. Commemorative CD/DVD editions of Paul Simon's landmark Graceland album came out this week, marking the album's 25th anniversary. They include the new Graceland documentary Under African Skies, chronicling its recording and impact on world music and pop culture. Must watch.

6 Canadian Psycho. Suspected fugitive/cannibal Luka Rocco Magnotta was arrested at an Internet café in Berlin this week. Which actually really shouldn't surprise anyone, as the ultimate narcissist was there checking out reports on the manhunt for himself.

7 Russell Brand. At the MTV Movie Awards, Brand wasted no time in his opening monologue addressing his divorce from Katy Perry. "The last time I did an MTV awards show, I did end up marrying someone that was there. So tonight I'm going to keep my eyes peeled for my next wife!" No word if he kissed a girl that night.

8 Celine Dion. Celine Dion's heart goes out to Kate Winslet, who has said the Titanic theme song, My Heart Will Go On, makes her sick. Dion said on the Today show this week: "If I just count how many times I've sung it, maybe it'll get me sick. If she feels tired just hearing it, and, like, throwing up, I'm glad she was not the one singing it." You should hear me belt it out.

9 Twitter's New Birdie. The world's famous little blue bird doesn't need any accessories anymore, as Twitter announced this week "there's no longer a need for text, bubbled typefaces, or a lowercase 't' to represent Twitter" anymore. So now it's just the birdie. In other news, the blue jay in my backyard still has a bird bath.

10 Miley Cyrus. It was just yesterday that my girls were watching her as Hannah Montana, and now the 19-year-old has gone and gotten engaged. Yes, she announced her engagement to boyfriend actor Liam Hemsworth. No word if dad Billy Ray will sing Achy, Breaky Heart at her wedding.

11 Melissa Stetten. The model hilariously live tweeted an unknown actor Brian Pressly — a devout Christian married with a child — hitting on her in a plane. Sample tweet: "Brian has a wedding ring. I ask him how his wife is, he says he just wears the ring because he likes it. Right, Brian." Horrible acting job Brian.

12 Brock University. Graduating students there were treated to some Hollywood celebrity when Ryan Gosling showed up with girlfriend Eva Mendes on campus to watch his mom graduate on Wednesday. Notebook ending to their schooling.

Prometheus is all about the aesthetics. HANDOUT

Script taints aesthetic gem

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Prometheus.

Ridley Scott's latest imagining is pretty, but the '70s sci-fi dialogue makes it go clunk

Richard: Chris, thematically Prometheus is equally about creation and destruction. As a piece of entertainment goes, however, I'm not sure it will create lasting memories. It won't destroy the goodwill of the first couple of Alien films, but I don't think it will add much to the legacy either. For me there is very little big bang in a movie that is reportedly about the most significant discovery in the history of mankind. You?

Chris: I was blindsided. My expectations were low to none. I didn't want Alien redux, I wanted something different and I got it. The visuals were so grandiose, the aesthetics so nightmarish and baroque that I was dazzled. Only when the pithy dialogue steered the ship did I reject it ... but then something would ooze, a storm would rage and I was back in. And hey, it's not 1979 anymore. We've seen it all and I'm pleased that Scott chose to dwell on dread rather than simple chest-bursting shock. But man ... that dialogue!

RC: It may not be 1979 anymore, but I agree, the dialogue sounded like leftover, bad late '70s sci-fi films. I expected a higher level of writing from a movie that is more about ideas than action. Having said that, I loved Michael Fassbender's automaton space butler. He's got many of the film's best lines and if they ever need someone to play the lead in The Peter O'Toole Story, he's the guy.

CA: Fassbender is fantastic, Rapace is scrappy ... but for me, this was all about aesthetics. Then again, with Scott, it was always about aesthetics. Alien

Synopsis

The basic storyline of Alien is in place in Prometheus, just don't call this movie a sequel or a prequel lest you annoy Sir Ridley. A group of hapless space travellers faceoff with some intergalactic nasties who give hugging a bad name. But these face huggers aren't the movie's main draw. Led by Elizabeth Shaw (Noomi Rapace) and Charlie Holloway (Logan Marshall-Green), the expedition into the far corners of the universe aims to prove a connection between ancient human civilizations and extraterrestrials. Chris Alexander sits in for Mark Breslin.

had no story, it found its power in dread, atmosphere and design. Blade Runner had no story, only a philosophy and a MacGuffin and again, exists as a testament to mood, music and architecture. With Prometheus, there are things in here that I haven't seen or experienced since, well, since Blade Runner; things I will never forget. And while there may be no chest-burster freak-outs, one word: Caesarean!

RC: (Mild spoiler) Four words! Do it yourself caesarean! The movie's slow build nicely leads up to that memorable scene, adding an element of horror to the heady mix of ideas but I expected more from Scott. Perhaps Alien set the bar too high for the director to leap over.

CA: I prefer to see it as Alien vs. Predator draining the IQ of the franchise so that Prometheus appears like Potemkin by comparison. But in all seriousness, Prometheus gave me a massive sensory jolt. Great Scott, give me more!

A tribute to hockey's legendary goon

Ogilthorpe. Short Canadian film based on the life of rock 'em, sock 'em player Bill 'Goldie' Goldthorpe

scene@metronews.ca

One of the most iconic characters from the cult 1970s film Slapshot will be coming to life in a new Canadian film entitled Ogilthorpe.

Ogie Ogilthorpe, the villainous goon who cameos in the conclusion of Slapshot, was a character based on real-life goon Bill "Goldie" Goldthorpe.

Like in Slapshot, the real Ogilthorpe's legend precedes him. When Goldthorpe played, his fists did the talking, and his bleach blond afro had the potential to make clowns blush. He once threatened Don Cherry and got away with it. And while incarcerated in Syracuse during the American Hockey League season, coaching staff from his team would escort Goldthorpe back and forth from prison between games.

Bill 'Goldie' Goldthorpe getting into trouble on the rink. HANDOUT

The film, which was shot in Humboldt, Saskatchewan, is the brainchild of executive producer Dave Fergusson. Fergusson thinks that style of rock 'em, sock 'em hockey featured in the film is a thing of the past.

"It was the wild west back then. He (Goldthorpe) was the wildest, most unpredictable player in the league back then. He was the fiercest goon ever to play the game of hockey," said Fergusson.

Fergusson has been transfixed by the legend of Ogilthorpe for some time now.

"That's the beauty of Ogilthorpe. The beauty of his life story is the drama — and it's both on the ice and off the ice."

"There are incidents where this guy went to a rink in a different league to watch a hockey game and he's a member of neither team and ends up getting involved with the brawl."

The trailer of Ogilthorpe is debuting on metronews.ca and ogilthorpethemovie.com.

In Cosmopolis, director David Cronenberg takes us on an existential road trip through the breakdown of modern society. Twilight heartthrob Robert Pattinson plays Eric Packer, a 28-year-old billionaire money manager. Powerful, controlling and self-destructive, he's driving across Manhattan to get a haircut in the back of a tricked-out stretch limousine while his world crumbles. It's a challenging film that exists on the macro and the micro, a complex character study of one man's battle to be relevant and alive and a look at the world that is rapidly changing around him.

Writer/director/producer Patrick Wang also stars in In the Family, his subtle but incredibly moving first feature film. Cody (St. John) and Joey (Wang) have raised Cody's biological son, Chip (Banes), together since he was a baby. But when Cody is killed in a car accident, Joey learns that Cody's six-year-old will name Cody's sister as Chip's legal guardian. In the Family follows Joey as he attempts to regain custody of his son and as he learns what it really means to be "family."

Alex the lion (voiced by Ben Stiller), zebra Marty (Chris Rock), giraffe Melman (David Schwimmer) and hippo Gloria (Jada Pinkett Smith) are still stranded in the African savannah and after a side trip to Monaco they join a circus with hopes of returning to their New York home. The Madagascar series has never been my favourite animated franchise but there is more invention and fun in the first 20 minutes of Madagascar 3 than in all of Battleship and Men in Black 3 combined. The new film is funny — it's worth the price of admission.

Dine then dash: A gourmet way to travel

Around the World in 80 Plates. Show's 'cheftestants' travel the world and face culinary challenges based on each destination's culture

MEREDITH ENGEL
Metro World News New York

On Around the World in 80 Plates — a cross between The Amazing Race and Top Chef — “cheftestants” travel the world and complete challenges based on the culture of the city they’re in. Though the series is sending its competitors everywhere from England to Morocco, you don’t have to leave your kitchen to add some of the global flair host Curtis Stone says you can bring to any dish.

“That’s the great thing about a show like this — there’s all sorts of inspiration to be taken from so many different sorts of people. The home cook will learn a lot by watching this.”

Stone breaks down lessons learned from his time abroad.

Italy: Customs are important.

“The culture in Tuscany was just so steeped in tradition, and some of our contestants tried to do stuff that was a little out there — they were just like, ‘That’s not in season right now!’ ‘Basil in a ribollita? Why?’”

France: Explore your food
“In our episode in France) they do a tasting of different cheeses and have to identify which ones are made with sheep’s milk. I think that opens your eyes to be like, ‘Oh, sheep’s milk, cow’s milk, goat’s milk — what’s the difference?’ They also do a wine challenge where they have to try and match a bowl of ingredients that have the same bouquets and aromas that the wine has. Watching something like that makes you think, ‘OK, I’m gonna look out for some of those flavours next time I’m drinking a wine.’”

Thailand: One base, many dishes.

“In Chiang Mai, Thai food really comes alive, and they do so much in a mortar and pestle. They use things like galangal, which is very similar to ginger, and they also use ginger, lemongrass (something that I don’t think we use enough of in the Western world), lime leaves (used more similarly to how we use bay leaves), palm sugar, lime rinds themselves, garlic, cilantro (both the stems and the leaves) — of course lots of fresh chilies — and all that’s pounded together to create this delicious paste. It’s so adaptable, whether it goes into a green papaya salad or a curry. That’s how the Thai cook, which is really inspirational.”

Rocky Community

The third season of sharp comedy series Community was rather rocky in front of the camera and behind it, culminating in the departure of creator Dan Harmon at season’s end. But one of the year’s unrivalled high points came with an episode repeating Friday, in which Troy and Abed’s housewarming party turned into a surreal examination of seven parallel realities (it’s funnier than it sounds). The episode has been nominated for a Hugo Award — given for achievement in sci-fi or fantasy — alongside three different episodes of Dr. Who. (NBC)

Shooting hoops

Basketball fans who have enjoyed this year’s playoffs might like taking a look back at some of the most memorable series in recent history with Friday’s “30 for 30” documentary entitled Winning Time. The special focuses on retired NBA sharp-shooter Reggie Miller, who managed to rub an entire city the wrong way during memorable showdowns between his Indiana Pacers and the Knicks — as well as New York’s most visible fan, director Spike Lee. (TSN)

Flick frenzy

There’s a range of cinematic offerings Saturday. MovieTime is airing back-to-back Sandra Bullock offerings (Miss Congeniality followed by the Oscar-winning 2009 tear-jerker The Blind Side) while Divas counters with two films from Adam Sandler: 2008’s mega-goofy You Don’t Mess With the Zohan and 2004’s also-goofy 50 First Dates. Action has the epics Kingdom of Heaven and Clash of the Titans. Bravo airs Four Weddings and a Funeral, History has the grim Martin Scorsese flick Casino and Peachtree TV has the 1995 Best Picture winner Braveheart.

Mad Men finale

Mad Men’s turbulent fifth season comes to a close with Sunday’s finale. In this installment of the moody period drama, there are opportunities for everyone while Pete meets a stranger on a train. That will be preceded by a new episode of sophomore drama The Killing, and since it’s the penultimate installment of the season, answers must surely be just around the corner. (AMC Canada)

Tell Me a Tale about Michael Kiwanuka

Unique sound. The Brits are enamoured with the understated singer's raw, soulful voice, and he's set to hit Bonnaroo music festival

Michael Kiwanuka didn't trust his voice.

For the increasingly large crowd of music fans familiar with the pure, soulful sound of the British singer's ageless voice, this is probably hard to believe. Yet it's true. Kiwanuka thought he was a guitar player and nothing more.

"The people who were big when I was in my mid-teens were like Usher, and Justin Timberlake started coming out," Kiwanuka said in his sing-song lilt. "And there's R&B singers who are amazing. And I would sing and it would sound not really like that at all ... so people just found it weird. When I listened to it back on speakers for demos and stuff, it just sounded like nothing else that was around."

We can all be thankful for that. Kiwanuka eventually found confidence in his voice, and as he prepares to play his first Bonnaroo Music & Arts Festival, he arrives with plenty of advance hype, joining top acts like Radiohead, the Red Hot Chili Peppers, Phish, the Beach Boys and more on the bill in Manchester, Tenn.

"I think obviously the first thing that stands out is his voice," The Black Keys guitarist Dan Auerbach said. "It's pretty amazing. It's got a lot of character." Auerbach was so taken with Kiwanuka's vibe, he reached out and set up a recording session in London on a rare day off. The resulting song, the slow-grooving Lasan, made the U.S. version of the album, which was recently released digitally.

"He sent me just this little demo he had with just his guitar and his voice," Auerbach said. "And we decided we'd just go in the studio and record it. ... It was this weird synchronicity thing. We came up with the arrangement on the spot. It was nice."

Things didn't always come so easily for Kiwanuka, a child of Ugandan parents who grew up in north London. In fact, he admits to struggling some in his first recording sessions with producer Paul Butler (also lead singer of The Bees).

"The longest studio session I had with him was two weeks, and I was like, 'Great, I've got two weeks to come up with something solid if anything else,'" Kiwanuka said during a recent interview at the South By Southwest Music Conference in Austin, Texas.

"So we got there and all the songs I had tanked, they just didn't work in the studio. I felt the session kind of falling apart. I had one day off to do what I wanted and I just stayed in my room."

It wasn't until he came up

Kiwa-'who'-ka?

Kiwanuka was voted in BBC's Best of Sound 2012 as Britain's top act to watch this year.

- Background. Long before his debut album Home Again went gold in his home country, the 25-year-old was already earning attention on both sides of the Atlantic with a series of EPs that showcased his songwriting ability, his understated guitar playing and that voice, which recalls soul singers like Otis Redding and Bill Withers.

with his breakthrough song Tell Me a Tale that things really got rolling. He emerged with not only words and chords for Tale, but also a Fela-esque retro groove that propelled the song in an exciting way and seemed also to break down the barriers he faced in the studio. Butler could see Kiwanuka's confidence growing daily.

"The thing about Tell Me a Tale, it kept its rawness," Butler said in a phone interview. "It has the grit and the dirt in it. It just has like a good intention with it that wasn't necessarily what he was playing. I hope he keeps that for future recordings, the rawness. Also he's blessed with this amazing African rhythm. You can't really learn what he's doing. It's a lovely thing that first came out in his guitar playing. You've either got it or you haven't."

Although Kiwanuka's sound is not typical of pop, his music has garnered him surprising mainstream support in Britain.

"He got a lot of radio play on (BBC) Radio 1," Butler said. "It was going in between Jessie J and all the big pop stars, and then Home Again would come on, this really mellow, gritty, earthy sound, and a lot of people really loved it."

Extremists win

Indonesian trials of Lady Gaga

SOUND CHECK

Alan Cross
scene@metronews.ca

One of the benefits of travelling is you get the opportunity to see local issues and events through fresh eyes. Take, for example, Lady Gaga's recent tribulations over playing a show in Jakarta, Indonesia. I had a ringside seat to the whole affair from neighbouring Singapore.

Her sold-out show at Gelora Bung Karno stadium (capacity: 52,000) scheduled for last weekend was cancelled by government authorities after protests by hardline organizations. This included the Islamic Defenders Front (FPI), an Islamist group that threatened violence if they didn't have their way. They made noises about storming the concert to "do what they must to stop the show."

Why? Here's a quote from a spokesman: "(Lady Gaga) is a vulgar singer who wears only panties and a bra when she sings and she states she is the envoy of the devil's child and that she will spread satanic teaching." Seriously?

"FPI is grateful that she has decided not to come. Indonesians will be protected from sin brought about by this Mother Monster, the destroyer of morals."

The ruling secular authorities of Indonesia have been trying hard to give the country an image of tolerance and fairness. They want to be known as a government that is willing to defend the rights of citizens against extremists, an important fact in a country with a history of terrorist bombings. They also want to show that democratization hasn't stalled in the fourth most populous nation (240 million) on the planet. And by and large, Indonesians are very tolerant.

However, there are signs that the state apparatus is becoming more integrated with religious organizations and their agendas. Commentators in the region say that the Gaga fiasco only proves this point. The government is now perceived as weak and inconsistent.

Now the fear is the extremists, representatives of a small minority, will become bolder and continue to threaten violence against those who do not see things their way. If they get the government to blink over a pop concert, what's next? Extremist fringes have already used violence (usually with machetes and batons) against Christians and other religious minorities. Are music fans next?

Not if some local little monsters have anything to do with it. Several dozen of them went to the stadium anyway last Saturday night. They waved signs, danced and went home. At least it was something.

Breasts. Is it possible that society is taking this sideboob obsession too far?

MICHELLE CASTILLO
Metro World News

"Decline of Western Civilization #248: The HuffPo has a whole section dedicated to 'sideboob.'" So tweeted one writer, in response to the Huffington Post's new page dedicated to, yes, sideboobs: photos of celebs flashing a little skin, usually at movie premieres or in magazine shoots.

On Thursday, founder

Arianna Huffington claimed the section was a joke — it was put together by the site's comedy team in response to comedian Jon Stewart, who said he goes to HuffPo for all his sideboob needs.

But the fact that most people thought it was real says something about the state of the news org, if not civilization.

Yay or nay

SIDEBOOB: PRO VS. CON

YES

Miley Cyrus — one of the most common sideboob offenders — famously said she can't be tamed. So, why do we expect that her twins will comply with fabric restraints? We personally don't see all the hoopla about flashing a sly sideways glance, a safe-for-work version instead of a naughty, full frontal presentation.

Sleek and aerodynamic, sideboob-baring outfits aren't only fashionable: they're environmentally friendly. Letting the natural air cool your body cuts down on needing the air conditioner. Using less fabric cuts down on the need to harvest and use more materials.

In all seriousness, breasts are a natural part of our anatomy, and it's time that we stop being prudish. If we can accept that a simple black censor bar over a nipple makes things kosher, we shouldn't be horrified at seeing someone's jiggle parts. There's much more eye-opening bits out there to get upset about. The whole section was intended to be a joke: There's no use of making mountains out of molehills.

NO

We don't know what's more disturbing: that sideboobs have entered the international news discussion or that people actually seek out sideboob entertainment. By bringing attention to this ridiculous craze, the sideboob vertical shows our unhealthy obsession with celebrity culture. Journalism now consists of writing full articles about these exposing moments because that's what readers want — whether they wax poetically about the shapely curves or pretend to be disgusted by it while they linger on the pictures.

As for the celebrities themselves, they seem to have a constant need for attention. Crotch-high slits aren't enough, now you have to expose both sides of your breasts and perhaps one of the cheeks to get the paparazzi to snap a shot? Instead of using their fame to promote worthy causes, they stage shots where they knowingly show off their goods for a little more time in the spotlight. If the sideboob section was a joke in response to The Daily Show with Jon Stewart's comments as Arianna Huffington claims, the satire was lost between the cleavage of both sides of the debate. The section was a cheap way to drum up more publicity and traffic for the Huffington Post. Our best bet is to put our opinions aside and just stop talking about it. The less that sideboobs are shoved in our faces, the better off we will all be.

No more auction dates for Charlize

Charlize Theron doesn't regret many things, but she does regret letting herself be auctioned off for charity.

"Do not do it. It's like the worst idea ever," Theron tells Conan O'Brien during an interview. While she went through with the blind date with the highest bidder, she admits she "made two girlfriends sit at the restaurant" nearby.

"The closer I got, I thought: 'This could actually turn out really bad. Rich people can be creeps, too! They can rape,'" she says.

"Look, I would rather just give the money (to charity). It was a scary thing. And (the guy) was weird."

Charlie Sheen

Charlie Sheen is far from 'done'

The way Charlie Sheen sees it, he's come a long way since his famous flameout last year, telling Rolling Stone that he's now sober — for the most part.

"I don't see what's wrong with a few drinks," Sheen says in the interview.

"What's your drink? Tequila? Mine's vodka. Straight, because I've always said that ice is for injuries." Speaking of injuries, Sheen still feels slighted by the way Hollywood pushed him aside after his famous feud with his former Two and a Half Men boss, Chuck Lorre.

"I was blackballed in this friggin' town. I had to generate my own stuff, to say 'I'm not done yet,'" says Sheen, whose new show, Anger Management, is premiering this month.

"I'm not done because they say I'm done."

All about Miley's rock

Miley Cyrus is getting married to Liam Hemsworth, and now she has the massive diamond to prove it.

Jeweller Neil Lane tells People magazine that Hemsworth asked for "something really beautiful and romantic," so Lane produced a one-of-a-kind gem: It's "a 3.5-carat cushion-cut diamond ring, handcrafted in 18-karat gold with intricately carved diamond floral motifs in an art nouveau pattern," he says.

At the centre is an antique diamond that hasn't been re-cut since the 19th century. Cyrus, for her part, seems pleased, posting to Twitter, "I feel like all my dreams are coming true."

The Word

Jimmy Kimmel, what have you done?

MONICA WEYMOUTH
scene@metronews.ca

We don't envy Jimmy Kimmel. Whereas the idea of Kardashians is enough to haunt this office, all three were live in his studio on Wednesday night. While he had them there, he took the opportunity to ask Kourtney if she had any plans to marry longtime boyfriend Scott Disick.

"Do you wanna be in my therapy session?" she replied with a seriously scary laugh (did we mention she is 33 and pregnant with his second child?).

"First of all, I have realized that I have major commitment problems during this pregnancy. I'm really claustrophobic, and all my issues — and I have a lot of them — they all stem from this thing. I can't commit to anything. But I love Scott, and he is my partner."

Kimmel made it out of the conversation as close to alive as you can expect after a close encounter of the Kardashian kind. But if Kourtney is sporting a ring next week, we're going to want a word off air.

John Travolta is gay, says former secretary

A former secretary for John Travolta says the actor — who's currently being dogged by multiple sexual assault accusations from men — is gay, according to the National Enquirer.

"Of course I knew he was gay. It never bothered me," says Joan Edwards, who worked for Travolta from 1978 to 1994.

Edwards claims she learned firsthand details from another former employee, Doug Gotterba, who worked as a pilot for Travolta starting in 1981.

"He told me that John was gay and they had a sexual relationship."

Travolta's attorney has yet to comment on the story.

Jim Carrey fires back

Jim Carrey didn't appreciate ex-girlfriend Jenny McCarthy telling Howard Stern that he has refused to maintain a relationship with her son, Evan, who is autistic.

"I will always do what I believe is in the best interest of Evan's well being," says the actor, who denies that McCarthy has ever reached out. "It's unfortunate that Evan's privacy is not being considered. I love Evan very much and will miss him always."

I think we can all agree on what's important here: There is no way we're watching McCarthy's new reality dating show.

Get sprung on unique summer shrimp rolls

Shrimp & Jicama Spring Rolls. These fresh bites make the perfect appetizers

Imagine crossing a monster potato with a water chestnut.

That's jicama for you. And while not much to look at on the outside, the crisp, crunchy texture and clean, sweet flavour inside makes this veggie worth seeking out.

First, the basics. Jicama is a tuber — a big, brown, round root. A relative of the bean family, it is native to Mexico and South America.

Though most often eaten raw, such as chopped into salads, jicama can be steamed, boiled, sautéed or fried.

The flavour is on the neutral side, with a hint of starchy sweetness. It really is quite similar to water chestnuts, and can be substituted for them.

Once limited mostly to Latin American markets, the popularity of Hispanic foods has pushed jicama into mainstream grocers.

1. Dipping sauce: In a blender combine the peanut butter, jam, soy sauce and vinegar. Blend until smooth. Add hot sauce, to taste, then set aside.

2. Place noodles in bowl and cover with hot water. Soak 5 mins., or until softened. Drain in mesh strainer and set aside.

3. Use spoon to scrape out and discard the seeds from the cucumber halves. Cut each piece into thin strips.

Cut jicama into thin slices, then cut each slice into thin matchsticks.

4. Fill bowl (at least several inches larger than the rice wrappers) with warm water. Soak 1 wrapper in water until soft and pliable, 20 seconds.

5. Carefully remove rice wrapper from the water and lay flat on the counter. Place small bundle of noodles along one edge of wrapper. Top noodles with a bit each of cucumber, jicama and carrots. Place 3 shrimp over vegetables, then top with a mint leaf.

6. Roll wrapper, starting with filling side, folding ends over the filling as you roll to form tight cylinder. Repeat with remaining wrappers and fillings. Serve spring rolls with dipping sauce.

Skip white wine & reach for...green?

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
peterrockwell@eastlink.ca

A philosophical frog once said, "It's not easy being green." White winemakers hum the same tune because consumer love for clean, clear liquid in their glasses has forced them to filter their whites within an inch of their lives for years.

Truth be told, many grapes we consider white have much darker skins than you might imagine, with the best example being pinot grigio. Unfiltered, your average PG would be a few shades shy of rosé.

One white that wears its colour on its label is Vinho Verde made in the Portuguese province of Minho. Translating to "green wine" its name is really a reference to the bright, refreshing flavours characteristic of the region's juice more than the pigment of Kermit's imagination.

Pale straw to the naked eye, Sogrape's Gazela 2011 Vinho Verde ($8.53 - $11.99) is a zesty, light-bodied wine with a zing of effervescence that tingles the tongue and adds lift to the subtle expression of citrus, lime and grapefruit.

A classic summer wine style, Vinho Verde is perfect with anything that swims or crawls in the ocean and makes a relaxing back deck sipper on a warm afternoon.

Roasted Beet Tortellini Salad. Side dish balances both sweet and savoury

Roasted beets, tortellini and fresh blueberries admittedly sound like an unusual combination for a summer pasta salad.

But the flavours and textures work surprisingly well together.

Ingredients

10 portions
Start to finish: 1 1/2 hours (40 minutes active)

- 2 lbs beets, peeled and cut into 1-inch pieces
- 4 tbsp olive oil, divided
- Salt and ground black pepper
- Two 20-oz packages fresh cheese tortellini
- 1/4 cup rice vinegar
- 2 tbsp chopped fresh mint
- 2 tbsp chopped fresh chives
- 2 tbsp chopped fresh oregano
- 1 tbsp sugar
- 12-oz container fresh blueberries
- 1/2 cup chopped toasted pecans
- 4 oz soft goat cheese

1. Heat oven to 400 F.

2. Spread beets on rimmed baking sheet. Sprinkle beets with 1 tbsp of olive oil, then season with salt and pepper. Roast 30 minutes, or until tender when pierced with a fork. Set aside to cool.

3. Bring saucepan of salted water to a boil. Add tortellini and cook according to packet directions. Drain tortellini, then spread on rimmed baking. Drizzle with 1 tablespoon of the olive oil, then set aside to cool.

4. In blender combine remaining olive oil, rice vinegar, mint, chives, oregano and sugar. Blend until mixed. Season with salt and pepper.

5. In bowl, toss beets, tortellini, blueberries, pecans and herb vinaigrette. Toss to coat, then crumble goat cheese over top. Serve at room temperature. If making ahead, refrigerate; let it stand at room temperature 30 mins. before serving. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Super succulent Marinated Pork Kebabs — minus the fat

Ingredients

4 portions
Start to finish: 30 minutes

- 16 oz pork tenderloin, cut into 1 1/2-inch chunks
- 1 small eggplant, cut into 1-inch chunks
- 2 portobello mushrooms, quartered
- 2 small red onions, quartered
- 1 large red bell pepper, cored and cut into large chunks
- 1 large green bell pepper, cored and cut into large chunks
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- 1/2 cup red wine vinegar
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp ground black pepper
- 2 tsp minced fresh rosemary
- 2 tsp minced fresh thyme
- 3 cloves garlic, minced

towel soaked in vegetable oil held with a pair of tongs, lightly oil the grates.

4. Place the skewers on the grates and cook for 7 minutes per side, or until the meat registers 145 F. Serve immediately. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

This recipe serves four. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1. Thread the pork, eggplant, mushrooms, red onions and both bell peppers onto wooden or metal skewers, alternating the meat and vegetables as you go. Arrange the skewers in a shallow dish that allows them to lay flat. A nine-by-13-inch pan usually works well.

2. In a small bowl, whisk together the olive oil, red wine vinegar, salt, pepper, rosemary, thyme and garlic. Pour over the skewers, turning and massaging them with your hands to thoroughly coat the meat and vegetables. Cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate for 2 hours or up to overnight.

3. When ready to cook, heat the grill to high. Using a paper

"We've been through a lot. We don't call each other family just to say it. We really believe in that."

Oklahoma City Thunder forward Kevin Durant, who scored 34 points in Wednesday night's 107-99 NBA finals-clinching win over the San Antonio Spurs.

"It's almost like a Hollywood script for OKC in a sense."

Spurs coach Greg Popovich on the Thunder. San Antonio had won 20 straight games after taking a 2-0 lead in the series before Oklahoma stormed back to win four straight.

Mobile news

It seems to be a foregone conclusion that Kentucky's Anthony Davis will go No. 1 in the 2012 NBA draft. But the star forward insists he's "not set in stone" to go first in the draft. Scan the code for the story.

Brodeur breathes life into Devils' cup hopes

NHL. Grizzled netminder gives New Jersey chance to turn around final against L.A.

There was no way the moment was going to get the best of Martin Brodeur.

He's touched the Stanley Cup, lifted it in the air, had it out front of the house where he was raised in the Montreal borough of Saint Leonard. And he's made an incredible career out of helping the New Jersey Devils win important games.

So with Staples Center trembling in anticipation of a Stanley Cup sweep by the Los Angeles Kings on Wednesday night, it should be no surprise that Brodeur was at his best as the Devils forced a Game 5 back in New Jersey on Saturday.

"It's just being in the moment," he explained afterwards. "It's really hard while you're playing to really think about (past experiences) — even though some of them are successful, some are not. But for me, it's living in the moment, living these experiences with these guys."

"That's what hockey is all about."

With so much of the focus in this series on the outstanding play of Kings goaltender Jonathan Quick, Brodeur has almost been lost in the shuffle. But he stared down three breakaways in an extremely tight Game 4 and benefited from a couple fortunate breaks — two pucks rang off his post late in the first period — to keep the Stanley Cup from being presented.

Whether it was just delaying the inevitable or the start of a historic comeback by New Jersey, only time will tell.

Brodeur has been quite candid about his team's offensive struggles in the series and knows that there is virtually no room for error in his performance as a result. The fact he's still able to meet that challenge a month after his 40th birthday is nothing short of amazing.

Few outsiders believed Brodeur would ever make his way back on to the big stage, especially since the Devils had only won two playoff series since the goalie lifted his third cup in 2003.

"I don't think you're ever surprised at what he does, how he handles everything," Devils general manager Lou Lamoriello said at the start of the final.

"He has a personality that never looks back.... He's changed his game accordingly to the way the style is. He's a student." t

Kings make road look easy

The Kings, 15-3 in the post-season, are the first team to grab a 3-0 lead in four straight series in one playoff year.

- But only one of those matchups ended in a sweep as Los Angeles has now dropped three Game 4s at home.
- L.A. is heading back into its true comfort zone for Saturday's Game 5 — the road. It is there that they have already set records with 10 straight victories in this post-season, and 12 playoff wins in a row, dating to last year. With one more win away from L.A., the Kings will also set the mark with 11 road wins in a single playoff.

Sharapova a win away from elusive French Open title

One victory Thursday finished Maria Sharapova's climb back to the top of the tennis rankings.

With one more on Saturday, she'll be the French Open champion and complete a career Grand Slam. Sharapova defeated Petra Kvitová 6-3, 6-3 in the windblown semifinals at Roland Garros. The second-seeded Russian will meet 21st-seeded Sara Errani in the final.

"I always dreamed of being on the final stage here and I finally have that opportunity," Sharapova said. "And I'm more than excited." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hopes of a nation on their shoulders

Polish players warm up in Warsaw on Monday. ALIK KEPLICZ/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

Ukraine president urges citizens to host with 'friendliness'

Ukraine's president called on his countrymen to give a warm welcome to visitors during the European Championship, in the face of concerns over racism at football matches and criticism over a political opponent's imprisonment.

- Viktor Yanukovich hailed his country's success in preparing for the tournament. He also congratulated his country on building roads, stadiums and airports for Euro 2012 and called on his citizens Thursday in a televised address to exhibit "our Ukrainian hospitality, sincerity and friendliness."

Pressure at home. Poland determined not to repeat mistakes of past while co-hosting Euro with Ukraine

Poland captain Jakub Blaszczykowski is determined not to let his team make the same mistakes at the European Championship that have torpedoed the country's hopes at past tournaments.

Topping that list is losing the opening game.

Poland was beaten in its first match at the 2002 and 2006 World Cups and the 2008 European Championship. It crashed out of each of those competitions in the group stage.

"For sure, the last tournaments were not a success, and that's why we're trying not to repeat the mistakes of the past," Blaszczykowski said Thursday. "But I'm convinced all of us players have done everything that we can to be ready for the first match. The most important thing is not to lose this game so as to head down the path of past tournaments."

The Poland side that will open this year's competition on Friday against Greece at Warsaw's new National Stadium in front of 55,000 fans is a very different team, however, from the ones that failed to impress in the recent past.

Above all, coach Franciszek Smuda has three top-class players to build the team around — the Borussia Dortmund trio of Blaszczykowski, striker Robert Lewandowski and defender Lukasz Piszczek.

All three players are coming off a stellar season during which they helped power Dortmund to a domestic double.

Lewandowski netted 22 goals in 34 league matches and was named the Bundesliga's player of the year. Blaszczykowski scored six goals and provided eight assists, while Piszczek contributed four goals and seven assists from his right back position.

"We have players who can change the game at any moment to our advantage, and that's the difference between this team and past teams," Blaszczykowski said.

The Poland captain and his teammates have an added incentive this year not to bow out early — they don't want to disappoint the millions of home fans who have been waiting for this moment since Poland won the right five years ago to co-host the tournament with Ukraine.

Euro 2012. European championship's calibre of play is second to none

The World Cup may be the best-known soccer tournament on the planet. It may not be the best.

To many fans, the European Championship ranks as the top competition.

This year's continental championship, generally called Euro 2012, kicks off Friday in Warsaw when co-host Poland plays Greece at the National Stadium. Ukraine also will be hosting games.

With only 16 teams instead of 32, many believe the calibre of play at the European Championship exceeds the World Cup, which gets diluted by some of the slots apportioned to areas of the globe without strong soccer traditions.

Both tournaments take place every four years, but in alternate even-numbered years. That puts the European Championship, which started in 1960 but became a full-fledged tournament in 1980 when eight teams competed, in the same summer as the Olympics.

For Euro 2012, defending champion Spain — which also won the 2010 World Cup — is the favourite, especially with Xavi Hernandez and Andres Iniesta controlling play. But the Netherlands and Germany are also contenders with their own game-changing players, notably the Dutch trio of Arjen Robben, Robin van Persie and Wesley Sneijder.

Others, like England with Wayne Rooney and Portugal with Cristiano Ronaldo, will also be in the mix.

Hooliganism is always an issue at major soccer tournaments; this year's competition has already been marred by racism concerns and political turmoil in Ukraine.

The 16 teams in the championship — the two co-hosts and 14 other nations that made it through a two-year qualifying tournament — have been split into four groups of four. The top two in each group reach the quarterfinals. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
